Contract washing

Contract washing:

Since the start 1986 Milama has acquired a broad knowledge about industrial cleaning. Since 1998 Milama has washed goods on a contract basis and have today developed this area into a flexible handling of different types of goods. Contract washing has several advantages compared to acquiring your own parts washing equipment:

- It requires no investment by the customer; If a component will be produced only for a limited time or in small quantities investing in a machine could be hard to justify. At our facility we already have the machine, personnel and chemicals.
- No need for space for the washing machine; A washing machine takes up space in the production facility and might require adaptions of the facility to handle steam, store chemicals, handle waste products and similar issues. If space is an issue in your facility contract washing is an excellent alternative to save space.
- Increased flexibility; If components are produced in campaigns there is a risk that equipment and personnel can't be utilized optimally between the campaigns. Our washing facility is highly flexible and can be rapidly scaled up or down based on how the needs vary over the year.
- Less to think about; If washing is the final production stage it can be sent to us for washing and then directly to the customer. If the goods needs to meet a cleanliness standard we can send sample pieces to an external lab to check the cleanliness.

Washing machines:

What machines we have is constantly changed based on the developing needs of our customers. In addition to the machines we always have available we also develop customer specific solutions. In order to protect the environment we have invested in a water treatment plant which handles our waste-water.
